ITALY WRITES COMPETITION

Building on the tremendous success of JCU's Italy Reads program that began in 2009 with a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA), JCU launched Italy Writes, a national English-language writing competition for Italian high school students that includes on its panel of judges professors from one of America's most highly-ranked creative writing centers: the University of Iowa's International Writing Program.

PARTICIPATE IN THE PROGRAM

Italy Writes engages high school students in the development of their English creative-writing skills and is open to all students enrolled in Italian or international high schools that do not have English as the primary language of instruction. Students compete annually for awards for the best creative writing piece in the genres of fiction and nonfiction. This national competition takes place each spring and the winners will be announced in May/June.

Percorsi per le Competenze Trasversali e per l'Orientamento (PCTO, Dlg. 107/15): students can now earn up to 10 hours for PCTO with the Italy Writes Competition.

Teachers can register their students for this program and receive digital resources provided by JCU's Writing Center and Italy Writes partner the International Writing Program (IWP) of the University of Iowa. These resources are to be used by the teacher for in-class workshops with their students. PCTO certification is based on the teacher's evaluation of in-class activities, the use of the digital resources provided, and participation in the Italy Writes Competition.

Hey, do you have questions about studying at JCU?

Italy Writes ha lo scopo di incoraggiare i giovani a scrivere in inglese: capacità, questa, sempre più importante per una partecipazione nella società contemporanea, in cui economia e lavoro presentano sfide globali.

Ideato a partire da Italy Reads, il programma di promozione della lettura creato nel 2008 dalla John Cabot University in Rome, Italy Writes è stato concepito per offrire agli studenti della scuola superiore italiana l'opportunità di migliorare la propria capacità di scrivere in inglese.

Gli studenti partecipanti sono stati selezionati nel concorso nazionale diviso in due categorie: Narrativa (1000 parole) e Saggistica (1000 parole).
